

Kristie Busch, D.O.

Summus

Dr. Kristie Busch is an Assistant Professor of Clinical Emergency Medicine at Weill Cornell Medicine and Assistant Attending Physician at New York-Presbyterian. Dr. Busch earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Biology with honors from SUNY Stony Brook. She then attended New York College of Osteopathic Medicine and completed a residency in emergency medicine at Good Samaritan Hospital Medical Center in West Islip, NY, where she served as chief resident. Dr. Busch is a board-certified osteopathic emergency physician.

Dr. Busch is actively involved in the Emergency Medicine Telehealth Program at New York-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medicine and is an educator at the Weill Cornell Medicine Center for Virtual Care. She has created content for multiple telehealth educational courses, and spoken nationally and internationally on telehealth education. Dr. Busch is also committed to expanding the utilization of telemedicine.